The fingerprints you provide will be compared against the national fingerprint system administered by the CrimTrac Agency—an Executive Agency of the Commonwealth. This search is part of the nation-wide check of criminal history records.

The Queensland Police Service usually registers fingerprint images on the national fingerprint system together with the applicant's name, date of birth and gender. Registered fingerprint images and personal details remain as a permanent record on the system. All Australian police services have access to the system for the performance of their policing functions.

The Queensland Police Service will only permanently register your fingerprint images and details if you consent. (It is MANDATORY to tick one box.)

- No [] I do not consent to my fingerprint images and details being permanently registered on the national fingerprint system and require them to be destroyed after comparison.
Yes [] I consent to my fingerprint images and details being permanently registered.
